Heating, Cooling & Ventilation: Sustainable technologies for a better life

Sylvie Feindt

Policy Director, Digital Europe

Sylvie Feindt is Director in charge of the Environmental Working Group.

Ms Feindt has more than a fifteen years' experience in public affairs having worked for the European Commission, DG Internal Market and DG Information Society. Ms Feindt has owned her own consultancy focused on European Research Programmes and Structural Funds. She has undertaken own research into the socio economic impact of the information society - from e-commerce to sustainability - and has written proposals for clients including, German regional authorities, small-to -medium size enterprises and universities. Further, she has undertaken extensive evaluations of projects and research programmes on behalf of the European Commission. On several occasions Ms Feindt has selected to be a member of evaluation monitoring panels of the IST Programme (6th and 7th Frameworks).

Ms Feindt's deep knowledge on European policies, its institutions and procedures, and in particular in the area of the digital economy, is based on her experience of managing projects, designing and organising workshops, symposia and other events on behalf of key European Institutions.

Ms Feindt is a German national and is trilingual, speaking fluent French, English and German and she speaks conversational Greek. Ms Feindt is a graduate of the College of Europe Bruges (Belgium) with a Masters in European Studies, and a graduate of Rheinische Friedrich Wilhelm Universität in Bonn, Germany.
